Antiques Are Horrible

under certain conditions. We refer to antique pieces of furniture. Antique furniture is horrible unless in good repair. The islands contain hundreds of homes which have pieces of furniture that reached here in the early days. Some of this came from the famous old cabinet makers of the continent of Europe. More of it came around the Horn from New England. The makers of this furniture are long dead. But today their work is termed "antique" and is highly prized, not alone because of the magnificent hand workmanship displayed, but also because of the curious designs and patterns shown in the furniture. Possibly you have some of this furniture. The chair seats may look ragged and the polish of the woodwork dim and unattractive. Possibly you have sent some of it, on account of its raggedness, to servants' quarters. You should dig it up now. Remember that this old furniture is very valuable. Remember that the woodwork as a rule is as sound as on the day the article was made. The upholstering needs to be done over, paint scraped off the woodwork and repolished—then you have a new article, with the added advantage that it is extremely valuable and of a unique pattern.

We do this work. Our skilled furniture repairers have for over twenty years been putting polish on furniture and putting it on too in a manner that suits this climate.

We will be pleased to give you an estimate.

Fibroid Tumors Cured.

A distressing case of Fibroid Tumor, which baffled the skill of Boston doctors. Mrs. Hayes, of Boston, Mass., in the following letter tells how she was cured, after everything else failed, by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Hayes' First Letter Appealing to Mrs. Pinkham for Help:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been under Boston doctors' treatment for a long time without any relief. They tell me I have a fibroid tumor. I cannot sit down without great pain, and the soreness extends up my spine. I have bearing-down pains both back and front. My abdomen is swollen, and I have had flowing spells for three years. My appetite is not good. I cannot walk or be on my feet for any length of time. The symptoms of Fibroid Tumor given in your little book accurately describe my case, so I write to you for advice."—(Signed) Mrs. E. F. HAYES, 252 Dudley St., (Roxbury) Boston, Mass.

Note the result of Mrs. Pinkham's advice—although she advised Mrs. Hayes, of Boston, to take her medicine—which she knew would help her—her letter contained a mass of additional instructions as to treatment, all of which helped to bring about the happy result.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Sometime ago I wrote to you describing my symptoms and asked your advice. You replied, and I followed all your directions carefully, and to-day I am a well woman."

"The use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound entirely expelled the tumor and strengthened my whole system. I can walk miles now."

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth five dollars a drop. I advise all women who are afflicted with tumors or female trouble of any kind to give it a faithful trial."—(Signed) Mrs. E. F. HAYES, 252 Dudley St., (Roxbury) Boston, Mass.

Mountains of gold could not purchase such testimony—or take the place of the health and happiness which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought to Mrs. Hayes.

Such testimony should be accepted by all women as convincing evidence that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound stands without a peer as a remedy for all the distressing ills of women; all ovarian troubles; tumors; inflammations; ulceration, falling and displacements of the womb; backache; irregular, suppressed or painful menstruation. Surely the volume and character of the testimonial letters we are daily printing in the newspapers can leave no room for doubt.

Mrs. Hayes at her above address will gladly answer any letters which sick women may write for fuller information about her illness. Her gratitude to Mrs. Pinkham and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so genuine and heartfelt that she thinks no trouble is too great for her to take in return for her health and happiness.

Truly it is said that it is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that is curing so many women, and no other medicine; don't forget this when some druggist wants to sell you something else.

$5000 FORFEIT If we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness.

On Monday next the Board will start on its tour of Oahu.

NAONE IS IN MORE PILIKIA

Another chapter in the strenuous family life of the Naone family was enacted last night. The Naones, Philip and his wife, have been much in evidence in Police Court circles during the past few days in their attempts to have David Kamai convicted of assault on Mrs. Naone. It was distinctly proved in the Police Court that the battered condition of Mrs. Naone was due to her husband's fists and not Kamai's. With this evidence it was put up to the grand jury to investigate as to whether the Naones were guilty of conspiracy against Kamai.

Last night Officer Halola heard suspicious noises arising from the Naone residence on South street and proceeded thence. There he found Naone pounding his wife and arrested him for assault and battery. On the way to the Police Station in a hack the prisoner told the officer that he wished to see a lawyer, and snatching his infant from its grandmother's arms leaped to the street. The officer followed and Naone fell down with the baby while trying to escape through the alleyway leading to the Union saloon. He was at once recaptured and is now reposing in the tanks awaiting his hearing in Police Court today.

YESTERDAY IN COURT

Hayashida Being Tried For Murder in First Degree.

Hayashida was put on trial yesterday morning before Judge Gear for murder in the first degree. He was indicted at the June term, when he also pleaded not guilty. Cathcart & Milverton are his counsel. Hayashida is charged in the indictment with killing one Sato at Waipahu, district of Ewa, on May 29, 1904, by inflicting two mortal wounds upon his head with a wooden club four feet two inches long. Deliberate malice aforethought and intent to murder the victim are alleged.

Prior to the drawing of a jury the court appointed Toma Abe as interpreter, but on Mr. Cathcart's objection to a policeman as interpreter the appointment was set aside. Chester Doyle, former Japanese interpreter, was similarly rejected as an attaché of the Attorney General's office. After a search for some one else, F. P. Kuroda came in and was sworn as Japanese interpreter.

There were only fourteen names in the trial jury box and when the court excused four of the jurors because they had been on the grand jury that indicted Hayashida, the empaneling process had to be suspended. A special venire for thirty-six additional jurors was issued and the case continued till 2 o'clock.

Deputy Sheriff Chillingworth appeared at that hour with a return of the venire, the nature of which is explained by the objection made by Mr. Cathcart to proceeding, at that stage, with the empaneling.

OBJECTION TO PANEL.

Counsel for the defendant objected on the grounds that the return showed service upon only fourteen persons and did not show that others named in the special venire could not be found in the jurisdiction of the court; that there had not been time for "a due and diligent search" for the missing jurors; that it was presumed the defendant had a right to the full venire, except such as were excused for good cause and such as could not be found after due and diligent search.

The objection was overruled and an exception taken to the ruling.

ODD MISUNDERSTANDING.

John F. Soper, the first man called to fill the vacant chair in the jury box, underwent a long examination in which both sides took several innings. After coming close to being excused for cause over and over again, the prosecution contested the challenge for cause and was sustained by the court.

M. F. Prosser, Deputy Attorney General, in starting with the juror, inadvertently mentioned Waialua as the scene of the alleged murder.

Mr. Soper answered with his mind on the murder of a Japanese woman at Waialua two or three years ago, for which a fellow-countryman is now serving time in Oahu Prison. The juror admitted having a strong impression of the case and under fire of questions went so far as to say that the impression was that it was "a cold-blooded murder." When he mentioned a woman as the victim, court and counsel laughed.

Still, if the case then in court had been reported in the papers, Mr. Soper was certain he read about it, for he read the Advertiser every morning and the other two papers later in the day. Without prejudice against the Japanese as a race, he yet regarded them as peculiarly impulsive and a people that did not look on violence the same as our American people. Any murder case he might read about, with a Japanese accused of the crime, would make a similar impression on him to that of the Waialua case he had been thinking of.

When Judge Gear finally asked him, followed up more closely by Mr. Prosser, about a murder at Waipahu, Mr. Soper could not state any of the details. The answers he gave to general propositions of a fair trial were satisfactory to the court.

A RADICAL JUROR.

John Kidwell was excused for cause after engaging in considerable debate with counsel and court. The time-honored maxim that an accused person is presumed to be innocent until he is proved guilty he regarded as "a mere theory." If there was a strong probability of guilt it was better, in his opinion, to hang the accused than to take the risk of letting him go free to kill more. At least, Mr. Kidwell contended, if the prosecution made a good prima facie case out, it was up to the defendant to put on some evidence of his innocence.

Mr. Ashford, the juror related for example, in one of the "legislative cases," when the prosecution had rested, flustered around a little and then said the defense had no evidence to offer. Anything like that would incline him to bring in a verdict of guilty.

The panel was exhausted between 4 and 5 o'clock, when Judge Gear ordered another special venire of 36 names.

COURT NOTES.

Through the number of disqualified persons and those having rights of exemption, Judge Robinson did not have enough jurors before him yesterday to make one trial jury even without challenges. He therefore ordered a special world, outings which occupied Mr. Alexander's attention for the past fifteen years. He had first travelled to Scotland, England and Ireland. Other expeditions took him to the continent of Europe. Then he went to Venezuela, Columbia, Peru, Chili, overland to the Argentine country. At another time he sailed among the islands of the South Seas in company with his brother James. Another expedition took him to Palestine and Egypt. India, Java, China and Japan, occupied another tour, and another trip was to Alaska. In fact Mr. Alexander was a tireless traveller and there were few countries he had not visited.

DEATH OF S. T. ALEXANDER

S. T. Alexander was the son of Rev. William P. Alexander and Mary Ann McKinney Alexander, who arrived in Honolulu as missionaries on May 17, 1832. The deceased was born at Waioli, Kauai, October 29, 1836. His father came from Paris, Kentucky, and his mother from Harrisburg, Pa., the former dying here August 13, 1884, and the latter June 29, 1888. The deceased was one of nine children, and of these he leaves surviving him Prof. W. D. Alexander, of Honolulu; Mary J. Alexander, of Oakland, Cal.; Rev. James M. Alexander, of East Oakland, Cal.; Mrs. Lotie A. Ferrer, of Palermo, Sicily; Mrs. H. P. Baldwin, of Puunene, Maui; Mrs. C. H. Dickey, of Honolulu; Henry M. Alexander, of Redding, Cal.

S. T. Alexander married Martha E. Cooke, sister of C. M. Cooke, of Honolulu, on January 26, 1864, who survives him, and leaves also four children, Julia, Annie, Wallace and Martha.

Mr. Alexander took a college course at Williams College, and went to the gold fields of California in the early '50s. Returning to Hawaii he became overseer and finally manager of Waihee Plantation. He was afterwards manager of Haku plantation and became a partner with H. P. Baldwin in the development of Paia plantation about 1869. He was an incorporator with H. P. Baldwin in Makaweli plantation. In time he became the senior member of the firm of Alexander & Baldwin and was an officer and large stockholder in the Hawaiian Commercial & Sugar Company of Maui.

Mr. Alexander was one of the pioneers who developed the old crude, wasteful methods of making sugar into the modern, economical plantation, creating a great and paying industry in the Hawaiian Islands. To his energy and optimism the great success in later years of the sugar industry in the islands is measurably due.

HUIHUI FEELS THAT HE WILL WIN

"Say, you fellows think just because I am a native boy that I am going to lie down. I have heard this in every fight in which I have participated. Now, have you ever seen me lie down? That bloomin' Australian will be surprised when I cut loose."

All day yesterday Huihui talked along these lines. He felt so confident that all his friends are willing to place their coin on him.

Should Huihui be successful in whiting this contest the club will try and match him with Weday, the former champion of the Islands.

N. Jackson, who is to box Castro, says he is in the pink of condition and would like a show at Decker, in the event that he wins this match. Castro will give Jackson a tough fight. It will be science against strength.

Silva and Ackerman are training hard and both will do or die on Friday night. Seats can be had at Woods & Sheldon. No seats will be held, so those who desire a choice must come early.

A Sorehead Small Farmer.

A Haku correspondent writes a pitiful wall to the Bulletin about the bogies which beset minor industries on Maui, including bugs, freights, and imagined future oppression by the manufacturing canners of pineapples. In the hands of men like this Haku correspondent, minor industries will languish. But if this correspondent will let his land lie a few years and go on working for wages, keeping his eyes open in the meantime, he will see one industry after another come into paying existence, in the hands of men who are not afraid of bugs and bogies. Even the cane planters have had to fight fearful odds, but instead of sitting down and knocking, they met their foes bravely and have won a glorious victory. That is the way the minor industries will win.

In Pilikia.

Manuel Ah Foo was arrested yesterday for being disobedient to his parents. John Gouvea was taken in for using profane language. Pung Yock was locked up for assault and battery on Masao. Alkaula and Joaquin Rawlins were locked up for investigation. Louis F. Demello was charged with being a common nuisance. Konno was arrested for leaving his horse untied.
